MODERN VIOLAS BLOOM IN ALL OF SUMMER'S HEAT

Every one loves the Violas for the patches of bright color they bring to the garden. Their freedom of bloom makes them popular for edging borders and rose beds, as well as for the rock garden. They are most effectively used in the garden as a carpet for bulbs.
The Viola's increasing popularity is due in large measure to the development of modern varieties, most of them hybrids of Viola cornuta. The older types of bedding Violas flowered during cold weather, and like their cousins, the Pansies, stopped blooming and often died during the hot summer months. The modern varieties of Viola, however, although blooming best in cool, moist weather, are better able to withstand the heat and drought of summer than the old types.

Spruce and Evergreen orders at this Bargain Price must reach our Office AT ONCE for Spring Delivery

Our Evergreens are all carefully grown, at good distances for symmetrical development, are root and top-pruned into handsome, shapely specimens that will transplant successfully to new homes with ordinary care. We pack them so that the root-fibers are well protected and will reach their destination in good growing condition. If planters will continue this care to keep the fibers from drying out by exposure to air and sun until the stock is planted, success is reasonably sure.

All Evergreens MOSS-BALLED

in the Field.

Please Note! We are going back to the old nursery way of digging evergreens without a ball of earth in which they grew, attached. We have come to the conclusion it is better to dig carefully; gently remove the soil, replacing it with wet moss or excelsior, the entire protected root-system then sewed into a burlap container. Eliminating the accustomed 40 to 80 pounds of hard soil will make so important reduction in weight of both tree and the type of box required, that customers can now afford to Ship Evergreens by Express. Express shipments will save several days to weeks in railroad transportation, besides ensuring prompt delivery to your door. This brings you the roots still moist, the valuable fibrous roots unbroken; thus giving a better chance for success.
